

FULTON TELEPHONE GIRL IS BELIEVED MURDERED

SHENANDOAH
COM. SOUGHT
WEEK DELAYEvidence Given Naval Court Shows Lans-downe's Wishes

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Shenandoah was ordered on her fatal flight to the west on Sept. 2 despite recommendations of Lieut. Commander Zachary Lansdowne that the trip be deferred until the second week in September.

This is shown by official documents read into the records today of the naval court of inquiry by Captain G. W. Steele, Jr., commandant of the Lakehurst air station.

After the navy department had disapproved his plan for starting at the later period, Commander Lansdowne made no further protest, Captain Steele declared to the court. The correspondence showed that the department was very anxious to have the great air ship visit state fairs in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and other western states during the first two weeks of September. Commander Lansdowne replied that since there would not be time to complete preparations at Scott Field, Ill., for the reception of the ship, he would suggest that the voyage be deferred until the second week.

Heeded One Objection.

The navy department disapproved of this plan, fixed the itinerary and Commander Lansdowne undertook to carry out the schedule. The trip first had been suggested for July, but Commander Lansdowne objected because that would be during the season of thunderstorms in the middle-west and it was because of this objection that the flight was deferred until Sept. 5.

After describing frequent inspections made of the great airship and particularly of the metal structure, Captain Steele told the court that her condition at the time of her departure was such that her departure met with his entire approval. He added that the flight was undertaken by officers and men in the very hopeful spirit of bringing the utility and desirability of this type of craft home to the people of the country.

To Test Samples.

Rigid test of samples of the wreckage of the airship Shenandoah by the bureau of standards, Washington, was ordered by the court to determine whether there was structural weakness that might have led to the disaster that cost 14 lives. Samples of wreckage now here will be assembled in the order of their place in the ship for inspection by the court before the tests are made at Washington.

The court also directed the preparation of a blue print of the ship, giving the location of the various witnesses at the time they saw or heard the first indications of the breaking up of the craft, so as to ascertain whether it will be possible from the testimony to determine the location of the first serious failure in the structure.

"MISAPREHENSION," SAYS
DEPARTMENT.

Washington, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Navy department officials said today a misapprehension apparently had developed in testimony before the naval court of inquiry into the Shenandoah disaster at Lakehurst on the position of Lt. Commander Lansdowne in reference to the time of making the flight.

These officials declared the dirigible's commander, in suggesting a date for the flight, had been actuated by a belief that it would be impossible for the Shenandoah during the first week of September to take in all the state fairs she had been asked to visit in the mid west.

On Aug. 4, he suggested that the flight be made the second instead of the first week in September, saying that thereby additional time would be gained for preparations at Scott Field, Ill., and Detroit to receive and land or move the craft on its flight.

The department pointed out in reply that the state fairs ran for several days, and by leaving on Sept. 2 on their schedule as ultimately adopted most of them could be visited.

The recommendation for the second week in September was disapproved, ranking officials of the department said today, for that reason and weightier did not enter into the decision.

The correspondence with Commander Lansdowne was conducted by the Bureau of Aeronautics and the Bureau of Navigation. Secretary Wilbur was on the Pacific Coast and he said today that after his return here Aug. 17, there was no correspondence with Commander Lansdowne on the trip.

Captain Steele was in Washington a few days ago, the secretary added, and told him that Commander Lansdowne's only apprehension concerning the trip was a fear that he would not be able to reach Des Moines before the fair closed.

It was insisted by responsible officials.

FRENCH FINANCE MINISTER LANDS

Arrange for Funding of French Debt

New York, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Expressing confidence that the French war debt to the United States can be settled "upon the basis of peace and righteousness," Joseph C. Caillaux, French finance minister, arrived on the steamship Paris today at the head of a French government mission which is open negotiations with the American debt commission in Washington tomorrow.

Minister Caillaux, who is about five feet, eight inches tall, is almost completely bald.

He spoke excellent English and used expressive gestures. When newspapermen began to bombard him with questions, he said:

"Don't talk so fast and don't swallow your words. That is the trouble with many Americans and it makes it hard for them to be understood."

The minister was visibly perturbed by the first question put to him, which was as follows:

"We know you were not convicted of treason, but will you tell us just what you were convicted of?"

Caillaux threw up his hands in apparent disgust. "I am the finance minister of my country," he declared, "and I refuse to answer such a question."

AIR MAIL PROVES VALUE, NEW TELLS
AIR BOARD TODAYCarried 9,300,520 Letters
During Fiscal Year

Washington, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Achievements of the postal air service were reviewed before the president's air board today by Postmaster General New, as demonstrating that commercial aviation "is an entirely feasible thing."

One motive for instituting the transcontinental air mail service, he said, has been to demonstrate to "men of means" that "commercial aviation is a possibility." How far that has succeeded in attracting capital to a new industry was not shown by the fact that the department recently received 19 bids for eight new mail routes it proposes to place in operation.

The postmaster general prefaced his statement to the board with an allusion to the controversy over the nation's air defense, in which he declared "it is of course understood that the postoffice department has no place in any differences existing among military and naval authorities as to the best methods for carrying on their aeronautical operations."

Demonstrate Possibility

"Our activities in the air," he continued, "have been directed toward the performance of an important public service in a manner to demonstrate to men of means that commercial aviation is a possibility. This is what we have had in mind in carrying the transcontinental air mail. It is not our belief that the government should permanently continue to provide this service under government auspices and at government expense, but the service is a most important one, and if it was possible for it ever to be undertaken by private agencies it was first necessary to demonstrate that it was an entirely feasible thing. The department several years ago, in co-operation with the war department, made several well meant, but unsatisfactory experiments with the air mail. It became apparent that if the service was ever going to amount to anything, it had to be undertaken on a much greater scale of operation and between points distant apart and service on sections of the present transcontinental line was inaugurated at different times.

Forced to Light Route

"It was not long however, until it became apparent that if the transcontinental service was to amount to anything, it had to be operated by night as well as by day. To do this required establishment of a lighted way to guide pilots. Illuminated landings, including equipment of facilities themselves. The first through day and night service was started July 1, 1924.

"Since that time we have been able to meet our schedules with a degree of regularity that has been highly gratifying.

"During the fiscal year ending with the 30th of last June, we flew on the transcontinental route 2,076,754 miles with a percentage of 96. That is to say, we flew the distance of 20,000 miles, including mail, ferry and test we flew 2,001,555 miles.

Carried 9,300,520 Letters.

"We carried during the fiscal year 1925, 9,300,520 first class letters, or 232,513 pounds, the total revenue received for these being $602,627.54.

"Withal, I do not hesitate to say that we have never yet had a plane that is really suited for our purposes. To carry mail to good advantage a plane must be specially designed for the amount and distribution of weight to be carried, the distance at which it can take off, the rate of speed at which it can be landed, and various other considerations of importance.

"We have recently invited proposals for specially designed planes and if our hopes of success in that line are realized we can do even better than we have in the past."

To Recall Officers.

Before Mr. New began testimony, Dwight W. Morrow, chairman of the board announced it had been decided to recall at a later date, Major General M. M. Patrick, army air chief and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, the naval air chief.

The chairman indicated the board desired to go more thoroughly into the administration of the two military services which have been the target of many charges in recent months. The date the officer will be heard was not announced.

It was disclosed also that Secretary Hoover would be heard into this afternoon.

Asked whether he favored a unified air service like that advocated by Col. William Mitchell, Mr. New said: "I believe the postoffice department should control its air service."

Then after a pause, he added: "That is all."

W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, followed Mr. New on the stand and testified that the country was making increasing use of the air mail.

"More than $3,500,000," he said, "was saved in interest rates by financing."

Citizen Here
60 Years, His
First Meeting

Harry O. Wheeler, ex-supervisor and veteran Dixon barber, has been a resident of Dixon for sixty years and last evening, for the first time, attended a meeting of the city council. Mayor Frank D. Palmer welcomed the resident of three score years.

"There are any number of citizens of Dixon who have never attended a meeting of the city council and are ignorant of the manner in which the city's business is transacted," said the mayor. "There is nothing secret about our sessions and the doors of the council chamber are always open to visitors. The council welcomes citizens to our meetings and we will answer any questions pertaining to the manner in which the affairs of the city are handled."

The application of the Standard Oil company, seeking permission to erect a sign at the Boyd street filling station was referred to the commissioner of public health and safety with power to act.

MUCH SOIL IN SOUTHERN PART
OF STATE SOURSuch is Estimate of U.
of I. Asst. Survey
Official

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—More than 20,000 tons of limestone is leached out of the farm land in every southern Illinois county each year and as a result more than 95 percent of soil in that section of the state, first estimated by E. A. Norton, first assistant in soil survey mapping at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Enough of this limestone to sweeten the soil must be replaced before the farmers can grow sweet clover, a legume which has an important place in every crop rotation system, he pointed out.

Leaching, whereby limestone is dissolved in the rain water and carried away by drainage, has been going on for thousands of years and has now removed the lime in the soil to a depth of from six to eighteen feet over the entire southern half of the state, Norton said. Removal of crops also sorps the supply of limestone in the soil, for large amounts of calcium, one of the essential elements of plant growth, comes from limestone. Growing crops, especially clovers, use calcium in large quantities.

"Quarries from which ground limestone may be bought are scattered throughout the state and the problem of replenishing the supply in the soil is not as distressing as it seems," Norton pointed out. "However, before the limestone is applied the soil should be tested to make sure whether or not it is sour and how much lime will be needed to sweeten it. Most of the soil in southern Illinois is extremely sour and requires from four to six tons of limestone an acre, and even more in places, to sweeten it."

Mr. Norton recommends the limestone containing considerable dust be applied. More than enough to sweeten the soil should not be put on, as the excess will be leached away in drainage water and he wasted. After a field has been limed and the soil sweetened, it should be tested every six or seven years and limestone applied as needed.

Rubbish Not Allowed in Filling Up Ditch

Commissioner J. E. Vale of the department of streets, has called attention to the regulations which cover the filling of the ditch on Highland avenue. Complaints in large numbers have come to the department concerning the dumping of rubbish in the ditch as fill. The commissioner and members of the council have ordered that only ashes and dirt may be dumped in the ditch, and the police have been instructed to arrest parties not complying with the rule.

MARRIED MAN, 21,
HELD AS ABDUCTOR
OF GIRL, AGED 14"Romance" Blasted by Arrest of Both in Rockford Tuesday

Rockford, Sept. 23.—Mae Showers, age 14, Jersey Shore, Pa., and Raymond Miller, age 21, Portland, Ore., today occupied cells in the city jail, their romance blasted and the young man facing practically every charge that could be placed against an erring husband in four or five states and federal court districts.

Police Captain Homer Read and Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. Nash were undecided whether they would try to prosecute Miller here on charges of contributing to delinquency of the girl and violating other sections of the moral code, send him to the Pennsylvania city to face charges of kidnapping, violating the Mann act and contributing to delinquency of the girl, or turn him over to authorities at Davenport, Iowa, to answer a warrant charging wife desertion.

Miller's admission to the police and to Assistant State's Attorney Nash indicated that the young man for the last year or two has been a rolling stone that collected women instead of moss.

Deserts First Bride.

July of last year found him working as a cook in Davenport, Iowa, and beginning a love affair with Mae Hitchcock, age 17.

January 8 last they were married at Davenport. Two weeks later Miller said he discovered she was unfaithful and a few days later he left Davenport. March found him in Jersey Shore, Pa., working for a bridge construction company and boarding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gorbeck.

"Kidnaps" Girl, 14.

He fell in love with their step-daughter, Mae, age 14, and a marriage was planned. He did not have a divorce.

Miller says that on the night of August 23 he took the girl in his Ford automobile and they drove out of town, the girl consenting to go. They had no particular destination. The girl said that she thought they were out for a pleasure ride until they were 45 miles from home and then she realized she "was being taken away."

Fruits and Vegetables
in Excess of Last Year

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Fruits and vegetables throughout the country are now moving to market at the rate of more than 20,000 carloads a week, fully a third in excess of the year round average. Supplies during the next few weeks are likely to be the heaviest of the season according to a report issued here today by the United States Bureau of Agriculture Economics.

Top volume for most fruits and vegetables, the report says, will soon be reached because they are maturing early.

Although prices are slanting downward, the general level is still above last season for potatoes, onions, canteloupes, peaches and cabbage. However, apples, pears, celery and sweet potatoes are, as a rule, a little lower compared with a year ago.

New Prescriptions to be Issued to Doctors

Dixon physicians have received word to get rid of liquor prescription blanks now in their possession before Oct. 9 because on that date a new form of blanks will be used by the government and the present forms will become obsolete.

Notice of the coming change was given to local doctors through letters from the prescription division of the internal revenue department received this week.

The new blanks will be of a different color and will be changed in general makeup. After Oct. 9 the blanks now in use will be no good.

The government, however, is not encouraging any increased speed in the disposal of liquor prescriptions.

T. U. and Klan leader, was written by his wife, she admitted today under questioning by officials when her husband demanded an investigation.

Mrs. Kleckner says she wrote the note to frighten her husband into leaving Vinton. She recently returned from a hospital and is said not to have fully regained her health.

STRUCK IN FACE
BY SHOT WHICH
BROKE WINDOWWm. Coffey Injured as He Was Painting at Rink Home

William Coffey was the victim of a painful and most peculiar accident Monday afternoon when he narrowly escaped being shot in the right eye with a 22 caliber bullet. Mr. Coffey was assisting in some painting at the Frank Rink home on West First Street Monday afternoon, when the bullet struck him in the right side of the head, plowed a furrow in his cheek and spent itself in the wall.

Mr. Coffey was engaged in painting a window in a room on the second floor at the time and was in the act of raising the lower sash when the leaden missile crashed through the glass, striking him in the right cheek. Splinters of the broken glass also struck him in the face, inflicting slight lacerations. A fraction of an inch to the left and the bullet would have entered his right eye. Boys who were playing along the river bank near the gas plant are thought to have thoughtlessly fired the rifle bullet which struck Mr. Coffey.

Numerous complaints have been made of shooting along the river bank, which is against the ordinance, and some boys may find himself in serious trouble if it is continued.

Oregon, Sept. 22.—Litigation extending over a two-year period resulted in a victory for Ogle county today when County Judge Leon A. Zick gave a final decision on railway taxes in various townships of the county and authorized the collection of $20,000 from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Chicago & North Western and Chicago Burlington & Quincy railroad companies.

Part of the disputed taxation has been extended from the administration of the late Judge Reed while something over $4,000 is due in the 1924 levy.

State's Attorney Martin V. Peterson represented the county at all the hearings and was opposed by railway attorneys, who opposed the levy because of community school levies.

Head Prohibition Party Attacks Church Report

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 23.—(AP)—H. P. Farris, Clinton, Mo., presidential nominee on the National Prohibition ticket in the last election, in a statement here last night, declared that much of the recently published report on prohibition by the research department of the Federated Council of Churches represented "the personal opinion of a young man." He added that there was a "medium of truth in the report."

The report, copyrighted by F. Earle Johnson, would probably not have been published had it been submitted to the board of control of the council, Mr. Farris said.

"The beneficial results of prohibition, even when only partially enforced, are manifest on every hand," he added. "Let the president take enforcement out of the hands of the treasury department with instructions to the attorney general to mop up the vestiges of America to such a degree that there will be no one left to question the efficiency of the Volstead law."

BODY FOUND IN BED, HAD
BEEN CHOKEDEvidence of Struggle; Screen Removed From Window

Whiteside county and Fulton officials are today seeking to unravel the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Mary McKee, night operator in the Tri-City Telephone company's office in Fulton, who was found dead in a bed in the company's office this morning when the day operators reported for work at 7 o'clock.

That the girl was murdered is the belief of the officials, as there is evidence of a struggle and indications that she was choked. Investigations conducted up to 2 o'clock this afternoon failed to disclose any tangible clue or possible motive for her murder. Sheriff Hamilton told The Telegraph in a long-distance telephone conversation.

Evidence of Struggle.

Mrs. McKee had a small bed in a room adjacent to the switch board, which she was accustomed to use during the early morning hours when calls were very few, and her body was found in this bed. The condition of the bed indicates that there was a struggle, and several marks on her throat were thought to be evidence that she was choked.

A screen had been removed from a window, and the murderer, if such there was, could have gained access to the room by climbing to the roof of a shed from which the window is easily accessible. A telephone pole, with spike steps, stands along side the shed, and this could also have been utilized by the attacker.

Young Farmer Held.

John Cominsky, aged 38 years, a farmer residing near Cottonwood, six miles east of Fulton, is being held in connection with the slaying. He is alleged to be a former fiancé of Mrs. McKee, a widow, and was under bond to keep the peace following an alleged attempt two months ago to gain entrance to the telephone central office, Cominsky, it is alleged, was seen in Fulton last night, but he claims to have been at home throughout the night after 9:45 o'clock.

It is believed that the slaying took place between 3 and 3:40 o'clock this morning, a telephone call at the first hour being given action, whereas an effort to reach central at 3:40 a. m. was unsuccessful.

Mrs. McKee had apparently been choked to death. Her body was found on the bed, covered with a blanket. Finger marks encircled her throat, a jaw was bruised, one leg badly bruised and she also had a bad bruise on the back.

Discovery of the body was made when the relief operators were unable to gain entrance to the office and summoned deputy Sheriff Maryn Bielenia. Carpenter C. M. Frye of Rock Falls, Ill., has set an inquest for this afternoon.

Bowling League to be

The alleys which were recently thrown open after undergoing extensive repairs are producing some high scores. The highest games rolled last week were as follows: Chapman—243, 206; Hubbell—223; Vincent—220, 207; Peters—225, 215, 213, 246; Hartzell—Potter—205; Barnes—207; Carnes—221; Sowers—206; Edou—201.

State Bank at Jewett
Robbed Tuesday P. M.

Jewett, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Bandits who robbed the State Bank at Jewett of $1,600 Tuesday afternoon about three o'clock, are believed to be the same bandits that robbed the Lake City, Illinois bank last Friday of about $250. The Jewett robbers used the same automobile with the same license number and abandoned the machine just outside of town in a woods and took another car. This one became disabled and they stopped an auto and forced the driver to take them into Mattoon where they disappeared.

ALIENATION SUITFreeport Woman Charges
Hubby's Brother With Breaking Up Home

Freeport, Sept. 22.—That a younger brother of her husband entered their home and exercised an influence over the husband which resulted in marital troubles, and finally a divorce, is charged by Mrs. Jessie Morgan in a $20,000 alienation suit being heard today by Judge William J. Emerson and a jury in Stephenson county Circuit court.

Attorneys Patterson and Looney, Freeport, counsel for the complainant, promised in their opening statement to prove that the defendant had so influenced his brother, Hazen C. Morgan, "by taking him on wild parties and providing him liquor, that the said Hazen C. Morgan had been influenced against his wife to such an extent that a divorce seemed the only alternative."

"Shake-down"—Defense.

Attorney Franklin J. Stransky, former Circuit Judge of the Fifteenth Judicial circuit, who is directing the defense, claimed that the charges constitute "nothing less than a shake-down."

Judge Stransky, who is assisted by Attorney R. R. Tiffany of Freeport, was most bitter in his attack on the plaintiff in his opening statement.

Predicts "Shady Testimony."

At the conclusion of his opening statement, Judge Stransky turned to the packed court room and said: "If there are any women here who may be shocked by 'shady' or smutty evidence, my advice is that they leave before any witnesses are called."

Judge Emmerson, Oregon, expressed the same opinion and adjourned court until this afternoon when the first witnesses were to be called.

Will Seek $1000 for Legion Football Team

The steering committee of the Dixon Legion football team met last evening and elected P. J. Moerschbacher general chairman. The committee discussed the proposition of financing the team this season and decided to adopt a new plan. At the suggestion of many fans, it was decided that the fans underwrite the proposition and the steering committee will start out in a few days soliciting funds. It is planned to raise $1,000 with which to finance the team and at the end of the season, the remaining amount will be paid back to the underwriters.

Economy is to be practiced this season, according to the committee heading the proposition, but not to such an extent that it will prevent Dixon from having a strong team in the field.

The management of the Aurora Legion team has asked for a practice game to be played at Dixon next Sunday afternoon, but no action has been taken on the matter.

DIXON MAN SPENT SEVERAL DAYS IN MAYTAG'S FACTORY

Enjoyed Visit to Biggest Washing Machine Producers

H. F. Ware of the W. H. Ware Company, 21 W. First street, just returned from a big two days Maytag dealer convention at Newton, Iowa, where he visited the factory of the Maytag Company, world's largest manufacturers of washing machines. Mr. Ware said the trip was by far the most interesting one he had ever taken and told at length about some of the operations in their mammoth manufacturing plant.

Newton is a small town of about 8,500 population but over 1400 of these people are employed in the Maytag washing machine factory. Probably one of the most interesting things Mr. Ware told about was the aluminum foundry which is the largest in the world and in which are made the cast aluminum tubs of the Maytag washer.

This foundry is considered as the world's most modern aluminum foundry. In it each month approximately 13.4 million pounds of aluminum are melted. The workmen's conditions are ideal and every convenience is provided them.

Big Output

Mr. Ware reported that the factory is turning out over 800 machines a day and that The Maytag Company has a large six story factory building in construction, which will increase the daily output to more than 1500 machines. The entire factory has a floor space of over 121-2 acres.

"One thing which impressed me very much," Mr. Ware said, "was the exacting requirements for accuracy which prevailed throughout the factory. All important measurements are made by micrometer gauges and every individual part is subjected to a very rigid system of inspection."

The Maytag Company makes one-third of all the electric washing machines sold and for the past three years has maintained the position of world-leadership. Mr. Ware enjoyed the trip very much as it gave him an opportunity to meet at the convention about 200 other very enthusiastic Maytag dealers from all parts of the United States.

BOY'S DESIRES TO BE MAN ARE BADNESS CAUSE

Frequently Misbehavior Result of Such Wish, Says Adams

Mooseheart, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A boy's desire to be a man is the most frequent cause of his misbehavior, Matthew P. Adams, superintendent at Mooseheart asserted in an address here today.

"The boy often misjudges what being a man really is," said Mr. Adams, "and this leads him to profanity, and things of that sort because these are what he sees in some men about him."

Mr. Adams, though a bachelor, has supervised the training of thousands of children in the home maintained here by the Loyal Order of Moose.

"One way to lead children on to religion is to take them to church—not send them," the speaker asserted. "That which we want children to do, we must first do ourselves. Children should be taught religion from books but they will get their real religion from the people with whom they live, from the spirit of their comrades."

"Children are more apt to imitate the good than the bad. If the good is shown as frequently. Most every parent feels his children should have a close church connection and that religion should be a part of his life, yet not all parents are willing to accept the same thing for themselves. If parents wish their children to be Christians, they must be Christians themselves."

The speaker suggested there should be some sort of compromise between the old "blue law" Sabbath of former days and the modern Sunday of unlimited freedom.

"Surely during the hours when Sunday school and church are held there should be quietness," he believed. "In the afternoon and evenings the type of recreation should be some what different than on week days. But how this problem may be worked out, depends more or less on the family ideals in each case."

Two Weeks Will See Corn Safe from Frost

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—All corn in Illinois will be safe from frost within another two weeks the weather bureau crop bulletin said today. The bulletin read as follows:

"On Saturday the temperature was the highest on record for so late in the season, but it was followed by cool weather. The rains were mostly of light proportions. During the week there has been some plowing and silo filling. Farmers are planning to increase the winter wheat acreage about 15 percent over last year. Inquiries made concerning the number of days necessary before corn will be safe from frost brought the following reports: north 6 to 12; central 4 to 11; south all safe to 8 days."

Newark, N. J., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Christian W. AIR MAIL PROVES VALUE, NEW TELLS AIR BOARD TODAY

Centralia, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—"If there was ever a time when there should be no compromise by ministers of the gospel with opposing forces that time is the present," declared Bishop Adna W. Leonard, of Buffalo, N. Y. last evening in his opening address of the Southern Illinois Methodist Episcopal conference. Stressing the fact that faith in "your house, your goods and yourself" were as essential in the successful carrying out of the work of the church as it is in business affairs, the bishop delivered a stirring address on the problems confronting the church today, pointing out that unity of the several denominations of the church throughout the country was necessary to accomplish results. He predicted that within twenty five years, so close would be the union of activities that denominational lines would be greatly diminished. Rev. C. B. Whiteside, district superintendent of the Centralia district of the conference was chosen secretary of the bishop's cabinet.

"If there is one thing Methodist preachers do not get enough of it is salary," declared William G. Gordon Murphy, chairman in opening the conference in his speech of introduction of the bishop. Mr. Murphy, who is an attorney at law said:

"If we lawyers had to do the same work for the same amount of money that the preachers do, we would strike for higher wages."

MAD MAN STILL AT LARGE

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Sheriff Al Randall and Deputy Sheriff Dick O'Brien declared today that they were looking for Toluca to aid in the hunt for Joseph Stemas, crazed miner who killed the sheriff of Marshall county and the Toluca right chief of police, Monday night. He Peorians took with them six bullet proof vests and a dozen tear bombs.

Though 500 men took to the fields yesterday, and airplanes and bloodhounds aided in the search, apparently no clue to the whereabouts of the slayer was found, numerous rumors that he had been trapped in a corn field proving without basis.

Who is the fellow who gives boys good tips, who tells good advice rattle off of his lips who, all of the bad thoughts in budding time nips, and keeps them from making a lot of poor slips?

Stop and remember, when you were a kid, of all of the things that you pretty near did. You'll surely remember who clamped on the lid, and saved you much trouble because he for-bid.

The person in question stuck with you through youth, and taught you the diff between lying and truth. You bumped into obstacles, day and day, but he was on hand just to show you the way.

There's hardly a fellow who will not admit that somebody else helped him do his real bit. If honest success is the thing that you've had a share of the credit should go to your dad.

The right sort of dad, with the right sort of son, will act as advisor when life is begun. He'll give him the tips as to right and to wrong, and then—well, the son's got to carry along.

Breakfast—Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, fried tomatoes in cream sauce on toast, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Eggs baked in tomatoes, brown bread and butter sandwiches, ginger bread, sliced bananas and peaches with cream, milk, tea.

Dinner—Lamb stew, baked squash, endive with bacon dressing, peach cobbler, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

September mornings are often cool and a hearty breakfast is appreciated. Children particularly need a more substantial meal after school begins than during the summer months.

As long as fresh tomatoes are available it's a good plan to use them whole. There are the winter months coming when they must be used canned so when they appear now contrive some way out of the ordinary.

Eggs Baked in Tomatoes. Four small tomatoes, 4 eggs 4 squares toast, dried bread crumbs, butter, salt and pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Dip tomatoes into boiling water, let stand half a minute and then plunge into cold water. Slip off skins. Cut a slice from the stem end and remove seeds. Sprinkle salt over the inside of the tomatoes and dust them, inside and out, with the crumbs. Put into ramikins or well buttered muffin pans and break an egg into each tomato.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter and cover with cheese. Bake in a moderate oven for twelve minutes, just long enough to cook the egg. Serve on toast.

After Cucumbers Ripen on Vines, they Are Good for Making DELICIOUS PICKLES.

If your cucumbers have eluded you through every picking until you find them ripened on the vines try these pickles. They are really delicious and worth making.

Ripe Cucumber Pickles. Three or four ripe cucumbers, two pounds sugar, 1 quart vinegar, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 3 tablespoons broken stick cinnamon, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons powdered alum, 1 quart water.

Cut cucumbers in half crosswise and then in quarters or thirds. Scrape out seeds and soft substance and add water to cover, measuring the water as used. Add alum, 2 teaspoonfuls to each quart of water. Heat slowly to the boiling point and let simmer over a very low fire for two hours. Drain and chill in cold water. The spices in a bag and add to vinegar, sugar and salt. Bring to the boiling point and add cucumbers drained from cold water and dried between towels. Simmer until cucumbers can be pierced with a straw. Pack in sterilized jars and seal while hot. Or simmer cucumbers in hot vinegar for twenty minutes. Put into a stone jar and pour over syrup. Drain off syrup, bring to the boiling point and pour over cucumbers for three successive mornings. Keep covered in a stone jar or seal in cans.

The size of the cucumbers of course determines the number needed.

Sliced Ripe Cucumber Pickles. Four or five ripe cucumbers, 1/2 cup salt, 1 cup minced onion, one-third cup minced hot red pepper, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 3 tablespoons white mustard seed, 4 tablespoons horseradish, 2 cups light brown sugar, 2 cups vinegar.

Slice cucumbers very thin. Peel or not as you prefer, they are prettier not peeled, but if the rind is at all tough it should be peeled. Sprinkle with salt and add water to cover. Let stand twenty-four hours. Drain and run through several clear cold waters. Drain thoroughly after final rinsing. Put into preserving kettle, add remaining ingredients and bring to the boiling point. Simmer twenty-five minutes. Seal in sterilized jars.

Ripe Cucumber Chowder. Six large ripe cucumbers, 1 small head cabbage, 1 quart small onions, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 4 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 red peppers, 2 1/2 cups sugar, 2 quarts vinegar, 1 cup salt.

Parse cucumbers and take out seeds. Chop. Peel onions and cut in slices. Chop cabbage very fine. Put into a large crock sprinkling salt through the layers. Let stand twenty-four hours. Drain thoroughly. Let stand in clear water for two hours. Drain again. Add sugar, celery and mustard seed to vinegar and bring to the boiling point. Add cucumbers, onions, cabbage and peppers from which the seeds and pith have been removed. Boil ten minutes and seal in sterilized cans while hot.

Since pickled onions are liked by nearly every one this recipe may be welcome.

Pickled Onions. Four quarts tiny silver skinned onions, 1 cup salt, 1 quart vinegar, 1 cup sugar (optional), 4 tablespoons all-spice berries, 3 tablespoons pepper-corns, 2 tablespoons whole cloves, 2 tablespoons broken stick cinnamon, 1/4 cu phorseradish.

Choose onions of uniform size. Peel, cover with cold water and let stand overnight. In the morning drain and cover with a quart boiling water in which salt has been dissolved. Let stand three days. Drain and cover with clear boiling water. Let stand twenty minutes. Drain and cover with cold water to which 1 teaspoon powdered alum has been added. Let stand two hours and rinse in clear cold water. Tie spices in a small bag. Put vinegar into preserving kettle, add sugar if used, horseradish, and spices. Bring to the boiling point and add onions. Let boil up once. Pack onions in sterilized jars, pure over vinegar to fill cans to overflowing and seal.

Mafalda is Bride of Prince of Hesse

Racconigi, Italy, Sept. 23.—(AP)—With time-hallowed ritual, Princess Mafalda, the youthful second daughter of the ruling house of Italy, today became the bride of Philip, Prince of Hesse.

The function was unusual, not only in the assembling of a remarkable gathering of princes and princesses, but in transcending the wounds of the war and uniting the daughter of the Catholic Italian royal family with the son of a Protestant German house famed for its early welcoming of Lutheran reforms.

Because of the differences in religion, Pope Pius granted a special dispensation for the marriage. Philip promised that any children of the union would be brought up in the faith of their mother. Also the price renounced all rights to his succession to the head of the House of Hesse, which fact makes it certain that Mafalda always will remain a Catholic for if her husband ever became the reigning prince of Hesse, it would be necessary for his wife and children to adhere to the Lutheran faith.

The bridal procession was headed by King Victor Emmanuel with Princess Mafalda on his arm and Prince Philip accompanying Queen Helena. Signor Tittoni read the marriage articles of the civil code, after which the marriage contract was signed with a gold pen by the bride and groom and by the king and queen as witnesses.

When the civil ceremony had ended the wedding party formed into a procession again, and marched through the halls of the castle to the chapel on the ground floor where the brief but solemn ceremony of the Roman Catholic church was performed by Monsignor Baccaria. Because of the differences of religion of the bride and groom, the nuptial mass was omitted, but otherwise the ceremony conformed to the Catholic ritual.

The gifts to the couple were numerous, beautiful and costly.

Most of the gifts are objects of art, such as paintings, statues and tapestries.

J. O. C. Class Elects Officers for Year

The J. O. C. Class of the First Methodist Episcopal church met at 5 o'clock Tuesday evening in the church dining room. Twenty members of the class with their teacher, Miss Velma Fay White were present. After a number of lively games had been enjoyed, a most delicious supper was served.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Mazie Joe Forrester. The girls sang a number of songs and then elected the following officers for the coming year:

Vice President—Mazie Joe Forrester.

Secretary—Helen Ryers.

Treasurer—Avis Liovan.

Chairman of Social Committee—Genevieve Dodd.

Many new plans for the year's work were decided upon by the enthusiastic girls. The meeting was closed with another song, and the girls reluctantly departed for their home, each one eagerly looking forward to the October meeting of the J. O. C. class.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

The commonest cause of unhappiness in the world is discourtesy.

And discourtesy in its keenest form is carelessness.

Let me illustrate what I mean:

The other day Jim Bunker, the golfer, and his wife were invited to a picnic. They said they'd be delighted to come.

Then Jim had a chance to play in a golf tournament . . . and, of course, he much preferred to do that than to go to the picnic. So he did!

"There'll be a whole gang of people at the picnic," he told his protesting wife, "and they'll never miss us."

At the last minute Mrs. Jim tried to telephone Mrs. Picnic Party that they couldn't come . . . but could get no answer to her repeated ring.

The next day she forgot to telephone and when she remembered it a week afterward, she decided that it was too late to do anything about it.

And she figured, what was the difference, anyway? As Jim had pointed out there probably had been a whole crowd of people at the picnic and nobody missed the Bunkers.

Of course, everybody had missed them. For the hostess had waited to have the roasted ears of corn and the fried chicken served until they should arrive. And by the time it became evident that the Bunkers were not coming, the picnic meal was spoiled.

No one who attended is likely to forget the Jim Bunkers and their rudeness for quite some time.

Nor is the hostess likely ever to ask them anywhere again. Without doubt she has crossed them from her list as friends as being too rude to count for much.

A little thing, you may argue . . . a tiny molehill to raise such a mountain of discussion.

And yet it is from the tiniest things that great bitternesses spring up to make lifelong enemies of people who once were great friends.

Friendship is a fragile sort of bloom and a touch of frost often kills it.

The importance of little things is always undervalued by people. The beginnings of everything are small.

A tiny cut often starts lockjaw. A pebble from a sling killed a giant, so the Bible tells us.

A carriage ride taken by an Austrian Archduke and his morganatic wife upon the sunny streets of Sarajevo on an afternoon in July, 1914, was the beginning of the greatest of all wars.

And so it is that a snub, or a slight caused by nothing more than carelessness, can be the cause of much resentment and unhappiness.

Fifty-third Wedding Anniversary Monday

Monday more than forty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krueger on the Lincoln Highway and surprised Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Huyett, who were spending the evening there. This was the fifty-third wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Huyett, also the birthday of their daughter, Mrs. Harvey Herbert of Nachusa. The affair was a complete and happy surprise to the bride and bridegroom of 53 years. At a late hour, a luncheon was served, including a tempting bride's cake, after which the company presented Mr. and Mrs. Huyett with a beautiful fernery.

Beautiful Wedding This Morning

A beautiful early morning wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Catholic church today, when Miss Bessie Denny and James Valle were united in marriage. Rev. Father Michael Foley officiating at the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock. The young couple were married with mass, Frank Gorham presiding at the organ, during the service, playing the wedding march and recessional, and Miss Helen Parker singing three solos, her numbers being, "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning," and "Oh Promise Me." Mr. Gorham also accompanied Miss Parker in her selections.

The bride and bridegroom were attended by Mrs. Max Blass of Dixon and Henry Cavanaugh of Polo, as matron of honor and best man.

The bride was attired in a handsome gown of beige georgette over satin, combined with cut chenille. Her hair was in the same shade as were her other dress accessories. Her flowers consisted of a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Blass wore a lovely gown in one of the new rosewood shades, her flowers being a corsage of red roses.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party in all about twelve guests, were entertained at the home of the bride with a wedding breakfast. The home was gayly decorated with garden flowers of the early autumn.

The table was beautifully decorated with pink and white gladioli, the dining room being most attractive in these delicate shades.

This afternoon some time Mr. and Mrs. Valle are leaving by automobile for a visit in St. Louis and Springfield. The bride's costume was added to by a coat in the deeper shade of beige, with gloves in harmony.

On their return to Dixon Mr. and Mrs. Valle will be at home to their friends at 1015 West Fourth street. They expect to return about the 15th of October.

The bride is a happy, vivacious young woman whose friends are many. She is a talented musician, possessing a sweet voice, and is an accomplished pianist, also. Mr. Valle is a most pleasing young man and is one of the younger successful contractors of the city. Much happiness is the wish of their friends, for them.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON HOOVER.

The public may as well begin keeping its eye on Herbert C. Hoover. His department of commerce does not afford opportunity for the spectacular, but it has given a chance for its head to show his dependability.

Herbert Hoover has measured up to every responsibility that has been put upon him. In civil life he was a success. He came to public view as food administrator during the war. He came through without taint or suspicion. His position was one in which he might easily have found himself in disfavor of the public. Instead, he emerged as a popular individual.

It was unfortunate for him in a measure from the political standpoint that when he was thought of in connection with public office his partisanship was not well defined. Political leaders do not look with favor upon such a person. President Harding thought well enough of him to give him the portfolio of commerce in his cabinet. Harding stood well with political leaders and his action definitely placed Hoover in the ranks of republicanism and gave him a clean bill.

That was good as far as it went, but it is suspected that in cabinet circles Hoover was looked upon something as an outsider.

There were points of difference between Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture and Secretary Hoover. Opinions of Hoover are said ultimately to have prevailed. Other changes in the cabinet have worked to the benefit of Hoover.

Of ten cabinet members originally appointed by President Harding, Secretaries Mellon, Weeks, Davis and Hoover survive. Weeks is about to retire of illness.

Mr. Hoover may not yet have found enough favor in eyes of politicians to warrant Washington writers in discussing him in connection with the presidency. It would seem, however, that his chances are better at his age of 51 than some of the men mentioned, who will be far into their 60s when the next president is chosen.

As an engineer Mr. Hoover was a success. When the World War broke out, before the United States entered, he took up his tasks in connection with it. Through the conflict and subsequent to it he filled the following positions:

Chairman of American relief commission in London, 1914-15; chairman of commission for relief in Belgium, 1914-19; United States food administrator, 1917-19; member of war trade council; chairman of United States grain corporation; United States sugar equalization board; interallied food council; supreme economic council; European coal council; director of various economic relief organizations in Europe during armistice period.

CREDIT WANT WORLD COURT.

The National Association of Credit Men asks for American participation in the court of international justice. A declaration adopted at Atlantic City suggests that.

"The propriety of this country's cooperation in the world court has been amply studied and discussed by the legislative and executive branches of the government," and expresses a hope that "without further delay the United States may acquire the great privilege and undertake the relatively small responsibilities of adherence to the court."

This is a temperate and reasonable attitude. The men assuming it speak both as American citizens and as credit experts, who believe that membership in such a tribunal would benefit American prestige and trade abroad, while making practical application of American ideals and doing no imaginable harm.

Plenty of other Americans take the same view, including the president of the United States and a big majority in the house of representatives. But there is never any telling what the senate will do.

KELLOGG HAD TO BAR THIS RED.

President Coolidge has explained just why Secretary Kellogg has refused admission to this country of Saklatvala, Hindu member of the British parliament, and former Russian nihilist, who wants to come here as a delegate to the meeting of the interparliamentary union in Washington. The president says Secretary Kellogg had no option. In barring Saklatvala, Kellogg was simply carrying out the mandate of congress when it passed the immigration law, one provision of which makes it mandatory that the state department refuse visas to persons who carry on revolutionary propaganda looking to the overthrow of American institutions. If any criticism is due, it should be hurled at congress. But general opinion will be that we have enough red spouters here at home, to whom we give pretty free rein, without importing any.

Charges of "subsidized vice," or any other kind of vice at the University of Illinois, have been met and thoroughly disproved by Dean Thomas Arkle Clark and other university officials, and the state federation of labor before whom they were made, is not only convinced but received the proof with demonstrations of pleased applause. Dean Clark is a real "go-getter." He found the student who told the wild and woolly story and got from him a confession that he is not a "student" at all and never has been, not even having passed through high school, and that he made up the whole story from his own fertile imagination. Life in the penitentiary would be none too hard on that bird.

New York's a great city. Has just about every kind of trouble in the world except forest fires.

These forest fires are growing worse. They should tack up signs in the woods reading "No forest fires permitted."

Maybe the game warden could limit the campers to starting one small forest fire per day.

"Constitution week" is a fine thing—provided it is the constitution that you celebrate.

It may help revive loyalty to our institutions and familiarity with the document in which they were first embodied.

If it could also arouse us to face our problems with the courage, foresight and resourceful open-mindedness which the fathers of the constitution showed in meeting theirs, it would be well worth a week's holiday for the whole population, every year.

But cherish no illusions. This may be what "constitution week" should be for, but it is by no means what some of its most vociferous agitators want to use it for.

They want to "re-establish the constitution in the minds and hearts of the people," not as a great milestone of human progress, but as a hitching-post, to prevent further progress.

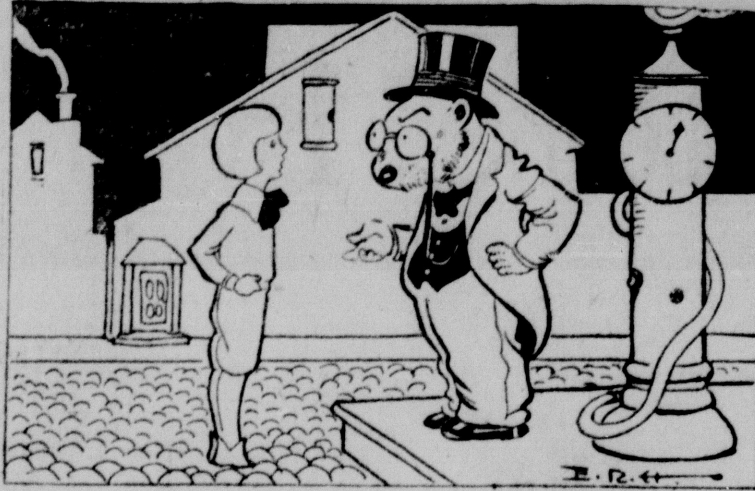

To this end, they seek first to make an emotional cult of the text of the constitution, and then to use this emotion as atmosphere for their propaganda against the direct primary, direct legislation, public ownership and labor unions.

They put out popular commentaries in simplified language on the legalistic rather than the institutional and historic aspects of the constitution.

They are interested, not so much in what is in the constitution as in the fact that certain things are not in it—not in the great steps of popular government and individual liberty which it took forward, but in the other steps which its framers wisely refrained from including in the first effort.

Not the constitution's trust in the people, but the limits beyond which

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

NO. 3—GRUBBY WOODCHUCK GETS CARELESS

"I've just found out about my son, Grubby, driving so fast," he said to Nick.

The day after Sammy Snake helped out Prickles Porcupine by wrapping himself around the wheel of his automobile, and pretending that he was a spare tire, Cutie Cottontail did somebody else a good turn. It goes to show how kind the world is. It was this way.

Wally Woodchuck had bought an automobile for the family. It was a nice blue automobile with two seats and a let-down top, and a fine place to put picnic baskets.

Wally was getting lazier and lazier every day, and they do say that the lazier you are the more you need an automobile.

So Wally bought one. But Grubby Woodchuck, Wally's oldest son, got it into his head that the car was bought for him. It was very queer, because nobody had said a word about the car being his.

And the family scarcely ever saw it. Grubby had it out from morning until night, joy riding around over the country and having a good time.

And at night poor Mrs. Woodchuck just couldn't go to bed for worrying. She kept thinking that her son had been wrecked somewhere off in the dark, or that he had been held up, and all sorts of things like that.

And the gasoline bills were something appalling.

Nick noticed that Grubby was getting a lot of gasoline, but he didn't like to tell Grubby's father because he never knew when the old gentleman was sending for it himself, or when it was Grubby getting it for more skylarking.

So things went on and on, until one day Mrs. Cottontail said to Mister Woodchuck, "Say, neighbor, do you know that son of yours is going to get into trouble? Yes, sir, he is."

It was not willing to risk the first trial of that trust, must be our guide. The most sacred dogma is that nothing which the fathers were not yet ready to venture in 1789 shall ever be ventured thereafter.

Eighteenth-century politics and nineteenth-century economics shall forever be the last word in human progress, and the constitution shall be their barricade.

It shall be the Aristotles and the Talmud of scholastic text-bookism; nothing which it omits shall be permissible even to think. By making doubt of the inerrancy of the fathers, especially in their omissions, wickedly unpatriotic, we set our consciences to guard the portals of the intellect against the intrusion of ideas.

The appointment of the special air service investigating committee will serve, among other things, the important purpose of separating the investigation of General Mitchell from the investigation of aviation.

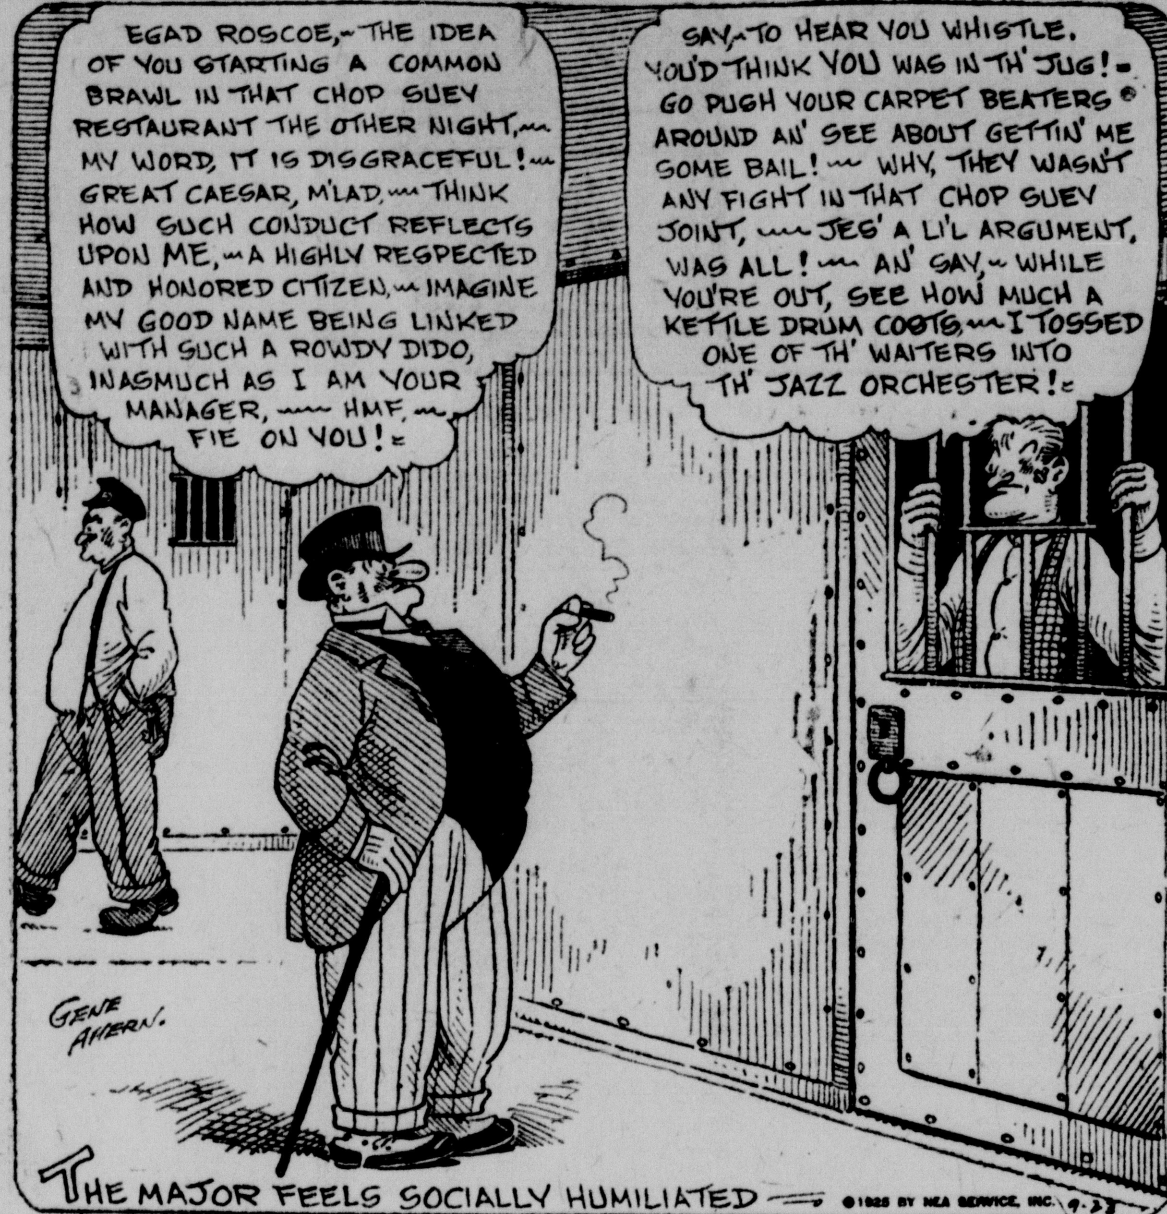

From the military standpoint, it was necessary to demote him in the first place, and it may be necessary to accommodate him now with the martyrdom which he is so ostentatiously seeking. But, if so, the result must not be, or even seem to be, the hushing up of what may be serious questions in regard to aviation itself.

A separate board, conspicuously competent, and at the same time independent, will not only find out the truth—an army or navy board might do that—but will close the mouths of any who would impeach the good faith of any less disinterested body.

Now we shall have the truth—and know we have it.

ROCHELLE HIGH TO OPEN SEASON WITH GAME WITH BATAVIA

Fine Squad of Players Encourages Coaches of Institution

Rochelle—For the first time in the history of Rochelle high school athletics the coaches have three full teams still battling for berths on the Purple and White and Coach Dawson is no respecter of persons in placing the men at positions. The line-up is being constantly shifted to test out the men. Coach Hiltbold is assisting in coaching the line men and is tutoring the second string men and substitutes.

Batavia, Rochelle's first opponent, is said to have a strong eleven coached by Coach Wear, who made a name for himself at Mahomet Community High, where he produced winning teams in all branches of sport. Seven of the men of the first eleven are veterans of one and two years of playing on Batavia teams, where good football is always played. The eleven is said to be light but fast, and in full dependence of a fine eleven man offense and defense rather than reliance upon individual stars.

Coach "Pat" Dawson reports that this week's work in football will consist of actual work for building a strong and sure defense, signal practice for the three full teams, kicking, blocking and the general mass calisthenics for the conditioning of all candidates. Rochelle invades Batavia for the first game of the season, Sept. 26th.

Mrs. Clara Leona Beck announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Frances Mae Kaufer to William Norman Countryman on Thursday, the tenth of September, Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Countryman is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Countryman.

The management prepared a splendid dinner and the commodious tavern made a splendid setting for the event.

S. P. Herrick, President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided and a ten minute talk was given by J. C. Brown, Dixon, district scout executive for Lee and Ogle counties, who explained the co-operation needed in forming a local troop, the amount of Rochelle's quota, $600.00, and the nature of the group, district, region and national organization.

The American Legion quartette consisting of Messrs. Fred E. Gardner, Malden Barker, Horace Beck and Norman Olson furnished music.

The principal speaker was C. E. LeVitte, of Savanna, Ill., for eleven years superintendent of schools, who spoke on the subject: "How the Chamber of Commerce Can Co-operate in Building a Better Rochelle." Mr. LeVitte believes that education is the biggest business in the world and that teachers are dealing in a necessity product in a market that can not be cornered. He suggests that a community should have good schools and advertised the fact, as you can use your schools to advertise your town, and your schools may be made an asset. The speaker advocated closer touch between father and son and a parents room in our schools. Mr. LeVitte also cited specific ways in which the schools had been used to stimulate business in Savanna and complimented Rochelle on its cleanliness, tone and size for personal touch.

SYNOPSIS

Bob, a young tramp, has prevented a terrible disaster by signalling the limited as it was about to dash into a boulder on a trestle in Granite Gorge. Passengers and men of the train crew want to show their gratitude but Bob suddenly rejects their advances. Finally he accedes to the request of Jim Fowler, the mail clerk, to ride to Grater City in the mail car, helping him, en route, to assort the bags which were thrown into confusion when the train came to its sudden stop.

Jim and Bob, under kindred moods of fascination, leaned out of the half-opened doorway of the mail car and peered into the naked abyss which, like a black vampire, was couched immorally in her rockbed enjoying the ravishing caress of the gale.

"Listen to that wind," said Jim, awed. "The Old Witch is tearing her hair tonight, all right!—she's sore because we escaped, and she's promising to get us some other time."

After a tentative sidelong glance at Bob, in the manner of a shy man who wants to make sure his auditor is not the sort to laugh at a premonitory confidence, Jim went on, while a bewildered shadow crossed his face.

"Do you know, this Gorge holds a sort of spell over me. I never cross it, fair weather or foul, without looking out and listening for I've the queerest notion that it's saying 'I'll get you yet, Jim Fowler, I'll get you yet, Jim Fowler!' Every once in a while I have a nightmare in which the Old Witch chases me with a broom and sweeps me into the Gorge. I always wake up as I'm falling in. Funny, isn't it?"

It was from—her!

Bob signified agreement by a grave nod. Then, as the soprano rattle of trestle rails underwheel was succeeded by the secure tenor of solid, ballasted right of way, Jim left his hunch behind with the Gorge, banged the car door shut, and turned to throw up his hands in dismay at the chaos of sacks and letters within the car.

In the corner farthest away from the work table Spike and Potts had made themselves snugly at home without ado, cleaning up the contents of Jim's supper can, to which he had bid them welcome. One fly in their ointment, however, was the constant and hostile suspicious surveillance of the marine, who was annoyed because after a glance at Spike's face, when the tramps had entered the car in tow of Jim, he felt that it would not be safe for him to doze serenely as he customarily did throughout the trip.

Bob's less adaptable appetite had not survived the excitement of the night. Furthermore, he was rendered uncomfortably ill at ease by the balefully feudistic way in which Spike watched him, though he pretended not to notice it. Instead of food he politely asked Jim's leave to clean up at the wash basin that was in one corner of the car.

"Better wash the grit out of those cuts on your forehead," advised Jim, giving him soap and a clean towel. "You'll find some iodine in the compartment behind the mirror here." Whatever little caste as a tramp Bob had, in Spike's eyes, was lost now as the latter saw him washing; and he leeringly drew Potts' attention to this unethical departure. But Potts, being a man of broader human experiences, merely shrugged with the air of a lenient inquisitor who disapproves but does not condemn.

$62,000,000 PAID BY ILLINOIS AUTO OWNERS SINCE 1917

Sec. of State Emmerson Reports on Fees in His Occupancy

Springfield, Ill., September 23—During the administration of Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson a total of nearly $62,000,000 has been collected in fees by the automobile department, according to the figures given out today.

The exact amount collected from January, 1917, to August 30 this year is $61,375,000.

When the financing of the first hard road system was being discussed in 1917 considerable doubt was expressed as to whether the automobile fees would be sufficient to pay off the $60,000,000 bond issue.

Leaving out the matter of interest, enough has been collected already in the first eight of the 30 year period to pay off the principal.

In 1917 only $1,587,772 was collected by the automobile department. During the first eight months of the present year $12,500,000 was collected and the total for the year will run well over $13,000,000.

The figures given out by Secretary Emmerson today show how fees have climbed during the eight years.

The total for the various years is as follows:

1917	$1,587,772.69
1918	2,762,567.53
1919	3,262,176.57
1920	5,893,586.02
1921	6,776,781.17
1922	7,561,211.21
1923	9,630,367.77
1924	11,313,957.05
1925 to Aug. 30	12,584,117.40

In the meantime the number of automobile licenses issued annually has increased from 340,292 in 1917 to over 1,065,000 issued up to August 30 this year.

—not in the purchase price—but in the results it gives—reflected impressively in low repair bills.

Polarine is a quality oil. The average layman knows little about lubricating quality—only a chemist can determine that. You are forced to accept the word of the manufacturer for you cannot tell by looking at an oil whether it is good or bad.

In that respect, Polarine has a tremendous advantage, for it is manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). The integrity of the Company is back of every drop. Motorists, generally, have come to recognize this eloquent argument for Polarine. Our sales sheets support this statement.

The main difference for the variation in quality in oils is in their ancestry. Polarine is made from crudes, specially selected for their particular lubricating quality.

Such crudes—and only such crudes—are used in the manufacture of Polarine. To maintain the Polarine quality is a precept of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization. You may depend upon it!

Buy Polarine with the complete assurance that it will thoroughly lubricate the remotest frictional surfaces of your engine—that it will conserve all the power your engine can develop—that it will reduce your operating cost to a minimum.

Change every 500 miles, thoroughly cleanse your motor with Polarine Flushing Oil, and refill with fresh Polarine. This will effect still greater economy and efficiency.

Burleigh Grimes, Dodger pitcher lost one of the toughest games in his career. After his teammates, helpless before Alexander for seven innings, bunched three hits in the eighth and gave him a lead, young Corgan, rookie shortstop, let Chicago tie the count by making a wild throw to first. Three times Grimes shattered budding rallies by hitting into double plays and a triple killing, the latter snuffing out his last hope as Percy Jones, who replaced Alexander, was unhittable.

Pitcher Ross of the Red Sox suffered a broken nose when a hot bouncer off Winkos bat struck him in the face.

Johnny Tobin of the Browns scored the only run in the game against the Athletics when he singled, stole second.

A Grouch Not Wanted

There is nothing so harmful to such as being a grouch. Stomach, liver and intestinal troubles make one grouchy. May's Wonderful Remedy will help overcome these and usually gives complete results.

Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and silences the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Hagen Forced to His Best to Beat Watrous

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The second match round for the professional golfers association championship was played at Olympia Field Country Club today and among the 16 contestants was the defending champion Walter Hagen, but he was there only by virtue of the most spectacular round he has played in many months.

The former British open champion not only had to go 39 holes but was forced to shoot par golf on the last 25 holes in order to down Al Watrous of Grand Rapids who was medalist of the tournament with a perfect score of 140.

This victory brought Hagen face to face today with another excellent golfer, Mike Brady of New York who tied Hagen a few years ago for the open national title, only to lose in the play off.

In the lower bracket with Hagen and Brady were the matches between Diegel of New York and Cruikshank of Oklahoma, and Farrell of New York and Deer of Cincinnati.

Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Dixon cases:

ROCKNE HAS GREEN
ELEVEN TO DEVELOP
FOR FIRST BATTLECaptain Crowe is Only Old
Man on Notre Dame
Eleven

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(AP)—All is not confidence on midwest gridirons as embryonic elevens take shape for next week's openers which are likely to forecast the season's performances.

How Notre Dame will show against Baylor this week end in the first game of major interest in the section, is a theme for much speculation among its followers.

The game is considered as an indicator of Rockne's ability to develop green men into stars. For other than Glenn Crowe, the captain, the Notre Dame crew is so far unwritten and unsung.

The Nebraska game Oct. 3, at Urbana may be a criterion of Illinois future in the Western Conference.

Coach Zuppke is giving much attention to Bud Stewart, aspirant to a place in Red Grange's backfield.

Single daily practice until the game is the rule because of scholastic demands.

Northwestern's opener with South Dakota assumes dangerous possibilities since the Purple mainstay "Moon" Baker, may be kept out of it by a sprained ankle. Matthews and Johnson, linemen, may be back in scrimmage in a few days.

Maroon's Passing Star

Michigan and Chicago may stress aerial plays in their curtain raisers, judging from daily workouts. The Maroons seem to have a passing star in Chuck Duval, while the Yostmen are studying pass formation behind the oval heaving of Ben Friedman.

Passing also is Coach Ingwersen's forte, with Kutch, sophomore quarter, doing the tossing.

Indiana's curtain raiser with State Normal, a week from Saturday, is getting only passing attention from Coach Ingram who has his eyes on coming Big Ten melees. A tentative first team is making strides against picked reserve and scrub elevens.

Wisconsin's hopefuls have more confidence since their 35 to 0 win over the "All-American," who bested them 7-6 in the first scrimmage last Saturday. Harmon looms as a likely open field runner and is ably seconded by "Toad" Crofoot.

The first string squad at Ohio, so far not included in scrimmages, is promised strenuous workouts soon by Coach Wilce. Four promising backfield men, Grimm, Marek, Young and Bell are out with injuries.

A backfield of triple threat men is Purdue's hope. Competition is keen for the line jobs.

Yesterday afternoon the ladies auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. met for their first meeting of the year. An outline of the activities for the coming winter was drawn up and to start with the ladies sprung a big surprise for the "Y" when they decided to buy two new gas ranges for the kitchen. The auxiliary is a group of ladies who do not make only decisions for they immediately appointed a committee to purchase the ranges and within twenty-four hours the ranges were installed. heat the old enthusiasm for the coming year. The club will celebrate the beginning of its third year and in addition to its regular business and discussion of plans the members will have the pleasure of having as its guest, Miss Henrietta Conrad the talented soprano with Kryn's band. It is expected that Miss Conrad will sing for the club.

To quote from the secretary's letter this week, he says: "When Greece was in its hey-day and dispensing culture, politics and art to the barbarian world a bright young chap named Aristotle broke into the chapter by making wise and witty sayings, much as Tom Simms does only more so. One of his best, the result of inspiration and experience was: 'The beginning is said to be half the whole.' Now Toastmaster if that was true twenty three hundred years ago, this year will be made in our beginning. Therefore, talk, think, and boost Toastmaster Club, and above all be regular in attendance, for although the club needs you, you need the club more."

NINE VITAL FACTS

Here, in brief form, we present for your information nine vital facts underlying the success of Dodge Brothers, Inc., and the goodness and value of their product.

Dodge Brothers, Inc., consider these facts so fundamentally important to the motor car buyer that they will be repeated, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service. This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brothers policy to build yearly models. When an improvement, that is really an improvement, is discovered, it is made at once. Their slogan, "Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models" is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unanswerably to their goodness—and the public's belief in their goodness.

The purchase of an automobile is a serious and important business. The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth.

A few of these essentials are clearly outlined above. They go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

The One who Forgot

By RUBY M. AYRES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

NAN MARRABY and JOAN EN-DICOTT are sharing a small London apartment awaiting the return of PETER LYSTER, betrothed to Nan, and TIM ENDICOTT, Joan's husband, both serving their country on the battlefields of France.

Peter is reported seriously injured. Six weeks later, just as reports to Nan are telling of her lover's improvement, JOHN ARNOTT, lieutenant in Peter's regiment, brings the news that Peter is in London but that the shock of his injury has caused him to lose his memory. He tells Nan that Peter does not remember her.

Contrary to Arnett's advice, Nan insists on seeing Peter. They arrive at the hotel to find Peter in the library engaged in a slightly conversation with a pretty young woman. Nan steps into the room—she sighs audibly—Peter turns—her eyes meet.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

THERE was a moment of tragic silence; the first throbs of exquisite joy that rushed through Nan's whole being slowly died away, leaving her cold and stunned.

Her eyes went past Lyster to the girl perched on the wide fender; then she forced them again to his face. She thought she cried his name in anguish, but her lips did not move and no sound escaped them. She thought she held pleading arms to him, but they still hung limply at her sides. She thought that the intolerable pain in her heart must kill her. She prayed frantically that she might drop dead rather than suffer any more as she stood there in the silent room, staring back at this man who looked at her with the casual eyes of a stranger.

It was the girl on the fender who spoke first.

"Are you—are you looking for anything?"

She had a pretty, rather childish voice, and her eyes grew interested as she looked at Nan's face and its unconscious tragedy.

Nan found her voice then, and she answered incoherently:

"Yes—my gloves—I—I must have left my gloves."

Lyster walked over to the paper-strewn table and moved a heap of magazines.

"I don't think they're here," he said, and at the sound of his voice—the voice of which he had been dreaming night and day since last he heard it—a sudden faintness came over Nan; she swayed a little towards the table, clutching it with both hands to steady herself.

She could not bear it—she could not! For an instant her nerves snapped; all her natural composure fled. If it had not been for the presence of the girl she knew she must have flung herself at Lyster's feet and implored him to remember how he had loved her—how much they had been to one another.

With a mighty effort she pulled herself together; the girl turned away and was lifting the cushion from a big armchair in a friendly attempt to find the gloves, but Lyster stood quite still on the other side of the table, staring at Nan with a puzzled sort of look in his eyes.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I'm afraid they're not here—I'm sorry," he said again, almost stupidly, and broke off.

"Things soon get picked up if you leave them about," the girl said lightly. "I expect they've been pinched."

Nan supposed she must have answered something, but she never knew what she said; her one longing was to get out of the room before she broke down; she turned blindly to the door.

Lyster reached it before she did—he opened it and held it for her; his eyes searched her face again as she passed out; when she had gone he stood for a moment looking after her, before he turned back into the room.

Arnett was waiting on the other side of the lounge. He took her hand and, drawing it through his arm, led her out of the hotel.

She walked quite firmly and steadily, and he glanced at her curiously.

In the light of a street lamp. So there was to be no concealment; he was faintly amazed; almost any other woman in the world would have fainted, or broken down, he told himself with a vague feeling of discomfort; when they had gone some way he asked if she would like a taxi.

"It's a good way back to your flat," he said. "And if you feel tired."

She laughed. "I don't think I shall ever feel anything again," she said.

"I wish you had not seen him," Arnett stammered. "I did my best to prevent you—"

"I know—you were very kind, but I had to— Just for a moment her voice shook, but she went on steadily.

Peter stared at Nan with a puzzled sort of look.

ly: "What am I to do? Oh, Mr. Arnett, what is there left for me in all the world?"

He tried to comfort her in his clumsy way.

"Things will come all right—the doctors say that he may get quite right in time. Not that he isn't right now—I don't mean that—but it's so difficult to explain; it's just as if a slice has been cut out of his life. If you'd been out there in France, I think you'd realize more how it happened; it's impossible to try and describe it for you. The shell that got Lyster killed 20 men; it was a marvel he wasn't finished, too."

He gave a little apologetic laugh. "We got so used to it out there, he explained. "Each day and every day seeing men you've lived with for months, and stood drinks to, and chummed with, brought in dead or dying. It all gets to be in the natural course of events. Don't think I'm trying to make things worse for you," he added, as he felt the little quiver that passed through her. "I'm only trying to make you understand how a man gets worked up till all his nerves seem like fine wire, and then—if anything happens—a shock—crash! and the whole lot is shattered."

Nan tried to understand, but her brain felt like wool; she could only think of Peter as she had seen him in that anguished moment laughing with another girl.

He had not forgotten how to laugh! He had not forgotten how to talk and amuse other women!—it was only she, who loved the very ground on which he walked, who had been wiped out of his memory.

"But he hasn't forgotten you—" she said with sudden harshness. "He hasn't forgotten you, I suppose."

"No," said Arnett reluctantly. "But then you see I've been with him all the time; I've been with him so much that even if he had forgotten me, I should in his mind, if you understand what I mean, I talked to him, and tried to help him remember things—we were always pals, you know."

"Tired," she said suddenly. "Would you—if there was anything else that you think I ought to know—you . . . you wouldn't keep it back from me, would you?"

"I give you my word of honor that I would not."

"Not from a mistaken sense of neck and inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart.

Nephritis or inflammation of the kidneys frequently occurs in the second to the fourth week.

Danger of Complications. In this complication puffiness is noticeable under the eyes, the hands and ankles swell, sometimes there is general dropsy.

There may be convulsions and the case may quickly end in death. In other cases the person either recovers entirely or complications may develop.

There may be pain, swelling and redness of the joints. Careful watch should be kept in cases of scarlet fever for symptoms of inflammation of the middle ear. These symptoms are pain in the ear, a tenderness over the bony prominence behind the ear, and drowsiness. The patient may moan in sleep and be hard to arouse.

If the drum membrane breaks the pus escapes from the ear opening and if the inflammation is mild the symptoms abate, otherwise an abscess may form in the bony cells behind the ear. If this abscess is not opened it may produce serious (fatal) disease of the brain.

Mild cases of scarlet fever may not be recognized until some unusual occurrence such as a swelling in the neck, the shedding of skin, the onset of nephritis is noted. The rash may be absent or present on only a portion of the body. The mild form may give rise to a severe attack in another person.

In a severe case there may be high fever, delirium, coma, gangrene of the throat with a foul discharge from the nose and mouth. In these cases the patient usually dies within a few days.

Proper Care Necessary. You should know that death from scarlet fever is infrequent in cases that receive proper care and attention, although many children succumb to the complications produced by scarlet fever and it is often the starting point of chronic disease of the head, ears and kidneys which latter may cause death in later life. It is more fatal to children under six years of age.

Persons suffering from scarlet fever should be isolated and should not be allowed to communicate with other people as long as there are any discharges from the mouth, throat, ears or other parts of the body. The person caring for the patient should not mingle with other persons and all dishes should be scalded before being again used.

The patient should have his own dishes, spoons, knives and forks. These dishes should be sterilized by washing in scalding water. All clothing worn by the patient should be disinfected. Milk bottles should be sterilized before being returned to the milk man. These precautions should be taken in the mildest cases.

The most careful supervision by a doctor is essential in scarlet fever.

Remember These Points

Preventive measures: 1. Children who have had scarlet fever must not return to school for at least six weeks.

2. Children whose skin is peeling or whose nose or ear is discharging still have scarlet fever.

3. Treatment by a doctor is essential. The heart, kidneys and ears are most seriously affected by scarlet fever and great care of the patient should be taken.

4. You should follow implicitly the doctor's directions and instructions as to food and clothing.

5. Careful nursing should be continued after the skin has peeled and the patient is apparently well.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I have told you before, Little Marquise, how I often hope that by some sort of alchemy you really do know what is in the letters I send you. Lately I have been thinking about you a good deal, and I have almost come to the conclusion that the annals of my life, as I have put them down for you, are not basely much different from yours.

Of course I know that you lived the most gorgeous courts that the world has ever known, and I am just the wife of an American business man. Nevertheless, I am quite sure that human nature has not changed very much since the time you left that fragment of a letter in the secret drawer—comedy and tragedy, joy and grief, love and hate, birth and death, are still a part of the luggage that humanity is carrying about this old earth.

I wonder, dear Little Marquise, if you found in your kingly lover when he was away from you, and when he was with you, was two totally different persons. When Jack is away from me, I surround him with all the imagined idealities that I had for him before we were married. When he returns, we have a few weeks of great happiness, and then, alas, he grows tired—at least he seems to grow tired—of me and my life.

Ever since Syd and Melville Sartoris were over here, Jack has seemed to be much preoccupied with his work. He hardly seems to know that I am about when he comes home. Even little Jack said to him the other night, "Daddy, what is the matter with you? You don't seem like you at all."

When his father asked him what he meant by that, the child said: "I don't see me in your eyes when I look at you, and I don't hear me in your voice when you talk to me." All Jack said to this was: "Daddy's tired, sonny," but he seemed more preoccupied than ever.

This week he has not been home one evening, telling me that things were kind of in a mixup at the office. Something he said yesterday makes me think he has had some losses. He tells me nothing of any importance about his work, ever, and I do not ask. One of the things Mother and I were married, allow ourselves to be curious concerning any details of our husband's business affairs about which he did not care to inform us.

"One of the things, Leslie," said my dear mother, "that makes a man grow tired of his wife, is to be always nagged about what goes on at his office. A man wants to forget about his business when he comes home."

"Men are queer creatures, my dear child. They make up their minds about things, and then the white about must conform. A man makes up his mind that his home must be a haven of rest, and oftentimes that is why he goes to some other woman to talk about things that worry him. He says he does not want to worry his wife about them, but don't you believe it. He has come home to rest and doesn't want to worry himself."

placing them in the hands of settlers, builders, manufacturers and foreign purchasers. THAT the difficulties of logging and milling in swamps and mountains far from centers of population have demanded pioneer qualities, and this pioneer spirit has moved the leaders in the industry to look far beyond the limits of mechanical stumpage conversion, into the relationships and responsibilities existing among manufacturers, employees, customers and the public at large.

THAT results of this searching study are found in the construction of model plants and residence cities where working conditions are nearly ideal and where home life and social contacts are surrounded by those comforts and influences which promote the highest attainments. They are found in the consistent maintenance of quality and service, safeguarded by trade-marking of products, standardization of grades and sizes and continual search for better methods. In the constant effort to reduce waste of timber and in the lumberman's readiness to cooperate with State and national resources in all reasonable ways.

THAT the leading lumber manufacturers are seriously interested in the maintenance of adequate timber supplies in this country through the full utilization of every tree and by the reforestation of our cutover lands. THAT slightly more than a century ago the leading countries of western Europe faced a timber famine more serious than we face today. With profitable markets for second growth material, favorable tax laws and adequate forest fire protection, those countries worked out a measure of private forestry comparable with other long-term business enterprises. THAT the people of the United States can promote a similar growth of forestry among private land owners, upon a much larger scale if they will solve the problems of forest taxation and fire protection. If trees are to be grown as a crop, they should be relieved of taxation until the long period of waiting is past and the crop ready to cut. Further, the investor must be assured that his crop will not be destroyed by fire after he has invested time and money in its care. Certain lumbermen already have gone far in the study of forestry possibilities, actually starting to grow trees for the future, hoping that tax and fire conditions will be remedied immediately so that they may go on. For example, it is possible to find upon our own properties many of the forestry activities which popularly are supposed to be limited to the older countries of the eastern hemisphere, and within the next few years we shall plant millions more of seedlings upon our cutover lands.

GIVEN ENLIGHTENED PUBLIC SUPPORT, THE LUMBERMEN CO-OPERATING WITH STATE AND FEDERAL AGENCIES WILL DEVELOP WITHIN THE NEXT CENTURY, SYSTEMS OF FOREST RENEWAL WHICH WILL ASSURE THIS COUNTRY A PERMANENT SUPPLY OF FOREST PRODUCTS SUFFICIENT AND SUITABLE FOR OUR GROWING POPULATION.
